Trial Days

Congratulations! You're trialing with a family. Here are some things to keep in mind:

Take Initiative

Families are looking for nannies who are excited and capable to seamlessly fit into their family life. Take initiative to engage with the kids, ask about their interests, do something they enjoy. The number one thing they want to see is their kids engaged with you and how you genuinely care about them.

Be a Team Player

Many families are looking for someone that not only cares for their kids, but are excited to be a team player around the house. Be sure to help when picking up toys or after snack time getting the kids plates to the dishwasher. These small tasks may seem simple but they go a long way when a family is looking for someone to care for their kids!

Ask Questions

Showing an interest by asking the parents questions about what a typical day looks like, or how they prefer to handle specific situations shows the parents that you are there for them. It'll show them you want to support them and are eager to learn about their family!

At the end of each trial day you'll want to check in with your Placement Specialist.
If all goes well, you'll be starting your new position soon!
